GHC in the Community: Shining the Light on Housing Issues

GHC is dedicated to community engagement and advocacy. Our team, consisting of staff and community volunteers, remains actively involved with numerous community organizations, concerned businesses, civic clubs, and individuals, including on-going collaboration with the Bingham Park Environmental Justice Project and the Collaborative Cottage Grove Partnership. Through community meetings and events, we facilitate important discussions, enabling community members to express their concerns and actively participate in advocating for healthy and affordable housing for all.

In April, the Collaborative Cottage Grove Partnership organized a community event in the Willow Oaks neighborhood titled “We Grow Together by Working Together.” This impactful Spring Extravaganza attracted over 250 people from East Greensboro for a fun-filled and informative day which connected neighbors and resources.

GHC participated in Hunter Elementary’s Latino Family Engagement Walk, where our staff distributed essential resources and information to many families. In addition, we shared our mission and services with groups such as the Greensboro Police Department and professionals from the Healthy Start Triad Baby Love group.

Our CEO, Hugh Holston, is frequently invited to give presentations and participate in panels addressing housing concerns in Greensboro. His passion is evident whenever he engages the community and his knowledge of the affordable housing crisis is sought after by leaders throughout Greensboro and Guilford County.

All of these interactions and presentations are crucial for raising awareness about housing issues and support systems for unhoused populations. GHC is dedicated to our mission to advocate for healthy, fair, affordable housing for all.

GHC Staff Members, Tiarra Brown and April Walsh, distributed information at Hunter Elementary School.

GHC CEO, Hugh Holston, participated in a panel discussion at Guilford College.

The 2023 Housing Summit was a great success! Don't miss out on attending in 2024. More information coming soon!
